CREDO is an acronym from the words Centre for Research, Education and Development in Organizations. It is a not 'for' profit body, established in Australia and Malaysia over 25 years ago. It was a pioneer in adult education, having introduced the first Diploma of Behavioural Science in Management (Dip.BSM) with SIDO in the early eighties. It also introduced the first external Executive MBA with the University of East Asia, in Malaysia. Together with Cambridge Global Learning and the Foundation in New Zealand, CREDO now offers the above program globally. New Zealand is one country that is at the forefront in the use of Accelerated Learning in Education.
